

Post Corona TALKS

vrp

Ruimtelijke planning en gezondheid

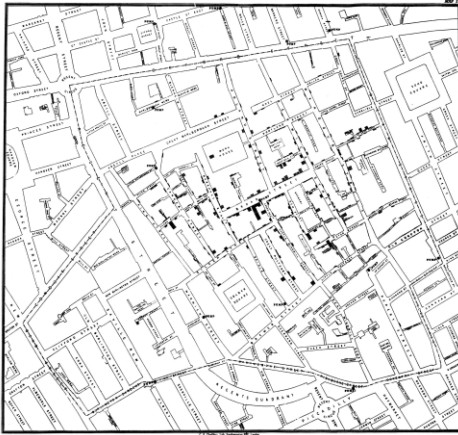

29 April 2020

Domino Park, Brooklyn, US

1. De geschiedenis van pandemieën, de geschiedenis van de stad en stedenbouw

Gezondheidsbeleid

infrastructuur en ruimte
voor basisvoorzieningen

centra en netwerken preventief en genezend

milieu-effecten

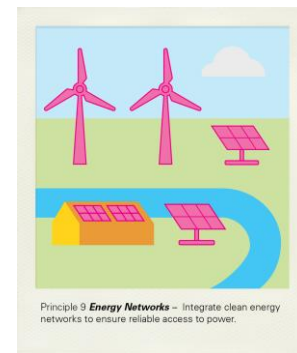

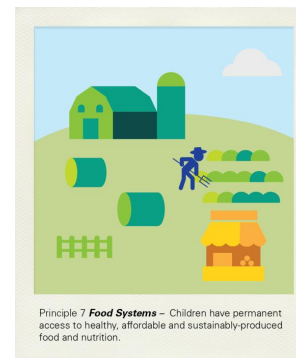

2. Planning als instrument voor een positief, vooruitziend gezondheidsverhaal

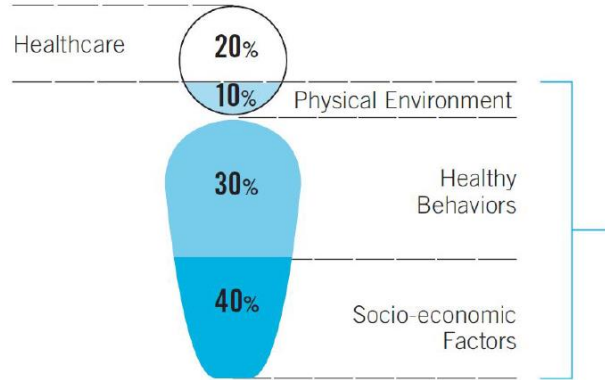

3. Ondersteuning van gezondheidsbeleid met shift focus overdraagbare naar chronische ziektes (NCDs)

5+1 health issues	Cardio-vascular diseases	Cancer	Diabetes	Chronic respiratory diseases	Mental and neurological conditions	Road traffic injuries
5+1 risks	Unhealthy diets	Tobacco use	Harmful use of alcohol	Physical activity	Air pollution & environmental risks	Speed
Healthy environment	Place-making public spaces	Sustainable mobility systems		Healthy food systems	Clean energy systems

Ruimtelijke ordening en ontwerp als onderdeel gezondheids-programma's

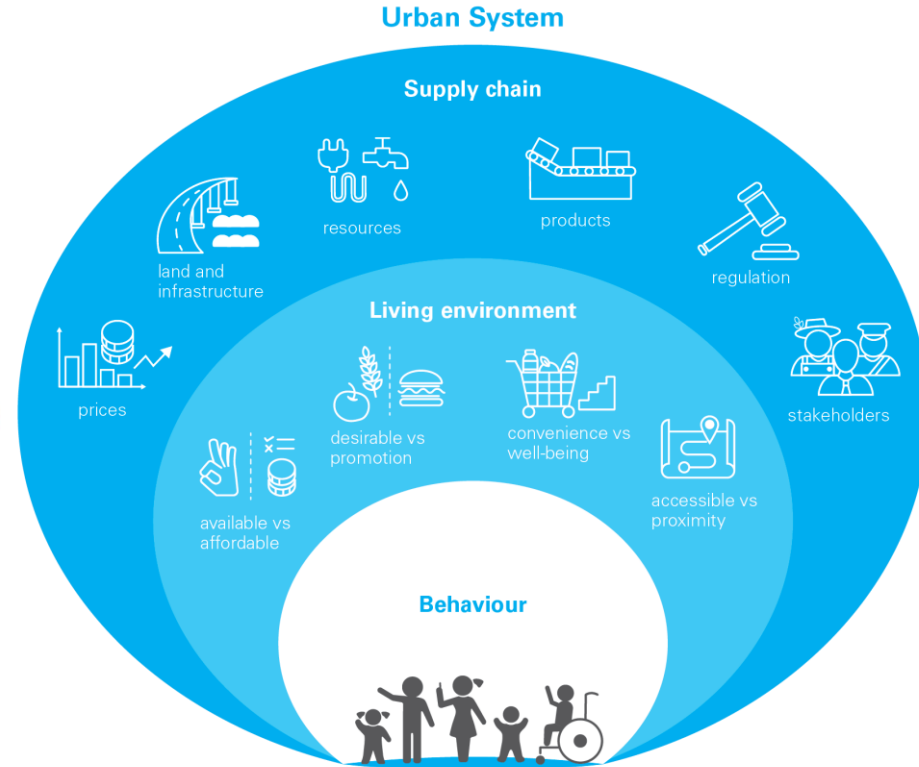

4. Stadsplanning die de mens centraal stelt: impact voor en door mensen

What makes us healthy?

All of these factors are known to be influenced by the DESIGN of the built environment

Principle 2 Housing and Land Tenure – Affordable and adequate housing and secure land tenure for children to live, play and learn.

Vila Verde affordable housing, New York, USA

Principle 4 Public Spaces – Safe and inclusive public and green spaces for children to gather and engage in outdoor activities.

Piazza Dergano, Milano

Principle 5 Transportation Systems – Public transit that gives children equal access to all services and opportunities in their city.

Cyclovía, Bogotá, Colombia.

Principle 7 Food Systems – Children have permanent access to healthy, affordable and sustainably-produced food and nutrition.

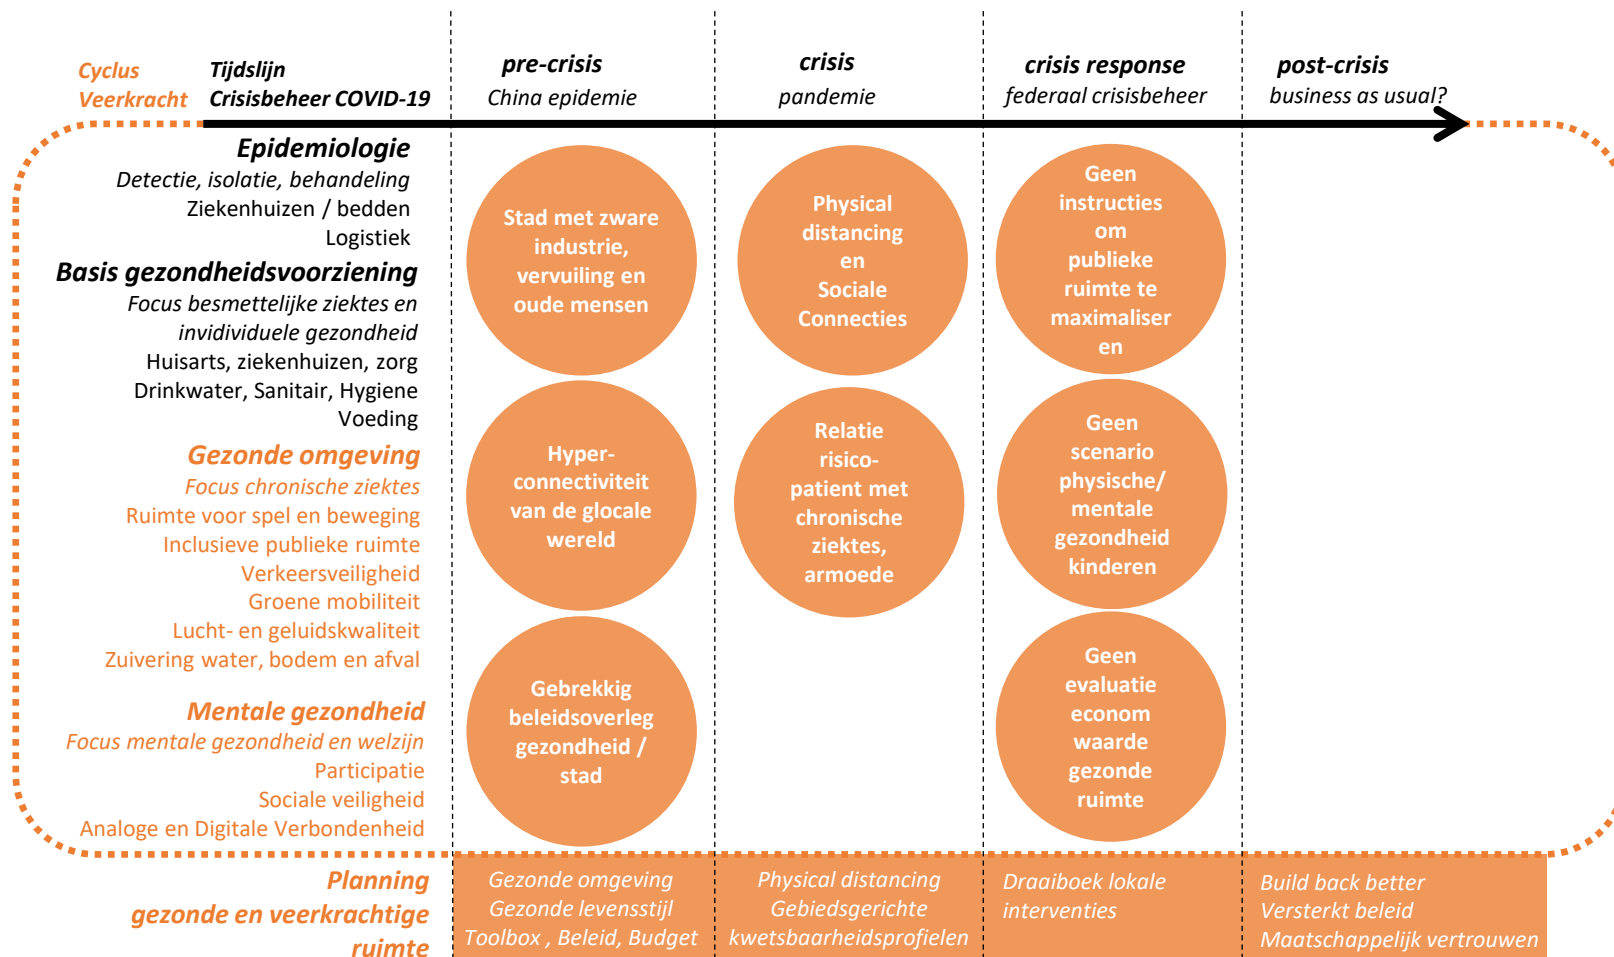

Farming Kindergarten, Dong Nai, Viet Nam

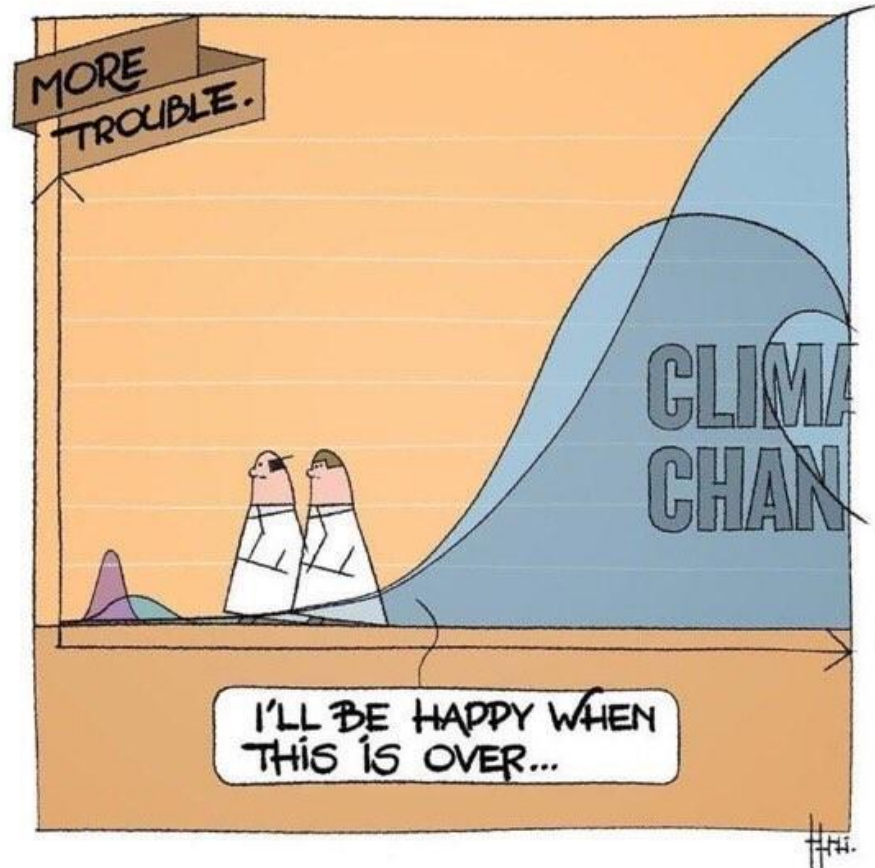

5. Nationale en supra-nationale recepten zijn ruimteblind en niet lokaal verankerd

6. Immuniteit opbouwen, kritische ruimtelijke analyses, veerkracht plannen

7. Gezonde mensen en een gezonde planeet

Post Corona TALKS

vrp

